The Society for Text & Discourse is proud to announce its Twenty-Ninth Annual Meeting to be held in New York, USA, July 9 - July 11, 2019. The conference will be held on the campus of The New School. We invite students and scholars from various disciplines (e.g., psychology, linguistics, neuroscience, learning sciences, and others) to attend and participate in the 2019 annual meeting of the Society for Text & Discourse. We welcome proposals for individual papers and posters presenting original research on text and discourse processing, representation, and analysis.

This announcement will serve as a call for papers for the 2019 meeting. All details regarding due dates, paper formatting, submission, and hotel costs can be found in the online 2019 ST&D Call for Papers linked below. Submissions are due February 17, 2019.
