

Second Language Speech Perception and Production Study IRB-FY2020-4250

What we are studying:

The relationship between listening and articulation skills and second language (L2) learners' performance in L2 speech production.

Tasks:

Participants will come to our lab at NYU to speak and listen to speech sounds.

Who we are looking for:

- Native English-speaking females between 18 and 40 years of age
- Started to learn Mandarin no earlier than high school and have at least one year of Mandarin learning experience
- No regular exposure to or speaking French, German, & Swedish
- No history of neurobehavioral, speech, hearing, and language disorders
- Have not recently missed teeth or started to wear braces
- No phonetic training experiences

Experiment duration and compensation:

The time commitment is 1.5 hours. Participants will receive a $40 Amazon gift card upon completion of the study.

To sign up, please email JL6132@nyu.edu or text/call 201-616-9024.

Please indicate "speech task" in your message. The researcher will contact you as soon as possible.