POSITION DESCRIPTION

The Department of Psychology (psychology.ucsd.edu) within the School of Social Sciences at UC San Diego invites applications for a tenure-track Assistant Professor position in Social Psychology, with an expected start date of July 1st, 2024.

We seek candidates interested in applying state-of-the-art approaches to classical topics (e.g., attitudes, close relationships, cooperation, emotion, health psychology, intergroup relations, social cognition) or to topics of emerging interest (e.g., collective action, morality, politics, responses to climate change) within social psychology. The selected candidate will be expected to (a) establish a high-quality research program; (b) teach graduate and undergraduate level courses and mentor students within the Department of Psychology; and (c) participate in department and university service.

The Department of Psychology is committed to academic excellence and diversity within the faculty, staff, and student body. We are especially interested in candidates who possess a strong commitment to supporting diversity, equity, and inclusion in an academic setting.
